

Author Presentations

J.L. McCreedy's Liberty Frye trilogy is written for readers aged nine ... to ninety!

The vocabulary is advanced. The storyline—nuanced to appeal to older readers—weaves historical figures, geographical locations, fairy tales and folklore (some well-known, some obscure) into an adventure-fantasy playing out in the real world as we know it.

The author uses the locations where she has lived (Germany, Tonga, China, Indonesia and Malaysia) as backdrops for her settings, and her presentations include anecdotes, folklore and artifacts hailing from each, thereby bringing a glimpse of these unique cultures to her audience.

Welcome to the Fantastical World of ...

J.L. McCreedy

Author

Middle Grade Fantasy/Adventure

Young Adult

www.jlmccreedy.com

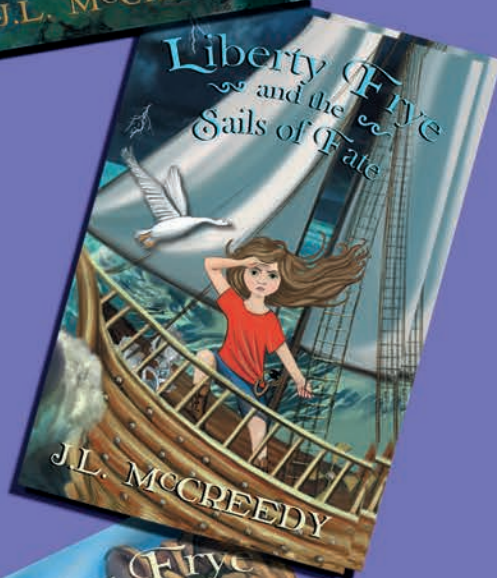

author@jlmccreedy.com

Liberty Frye

Fairytales!

Adventure!

Magic!

The world of Liberty Frye awaits.

Dare you enter?

From the Grimm stuff of fairytales, to legends of Maui and the lore of ancient China: wizards and witches, lost treasure and magical elixirs, time-travel, lycanthropes and hidden underground cities ... this is “excellent writing, thinking and adventuring all rolled into one.”

~The Children's Book Review.

Questions?

Contact Jesse at: author@jlmccreedy.com

www.JLMCCREEDY.com

J.L. McCreedy is a shoe-string traveler, street food fanatic and (reformed) attorney who prefers writing stories over legal briefs. She developed an incurable condition of wanderlust while growing up in Southeast Asia as the child of missionaries, and has been exploring the globe ever since. She's the author of the adventure/fantasy Liberty Frye series and The Orphan of Torundi. She currently lives in a creaky old house in the White Mountains of New Hampshire with her husband, an assortment of visiting ladybugs, and perhaps a ghost or two.